Hong Kong Business Aviation Centre Supports
Orbis Flying Eye Hospital

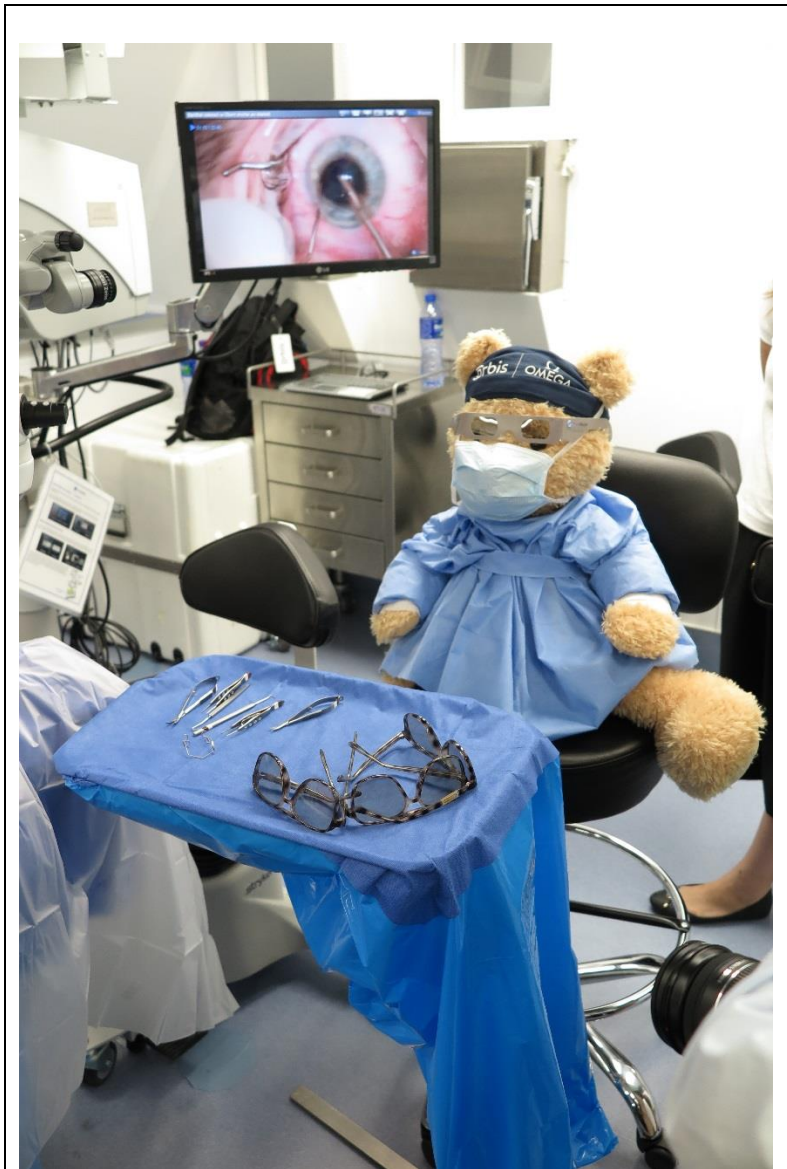

Photo 2: HKBAC staff went on the Orbis Flying Eye Hospital to understand how the top notch technologies installed on board allow ophthalmologists to perform eye surgeries, and to pass on the medical technology and skills to local medical professionals for a lasting impact to the communities.

(5th Oct, Hong Kong) More than six years in the making, the new Flying Eye Hospital is the world's only mobile ophthalmic teaching hospital, on board an MD-10 aircraft. The Flying Eye Hospital has successfully rounded up their stay in Hong Kong as part of their "Thank You Tour" to Hong Kong donors. The MD-10 aircraft departed from the Hong Kong International Airport this afternoon to continue its journey to Macau as the next stop of their tour. It will then fly to less developed countries to help bring light and healing to those who will otherwise be forever shrouded in darkness.

In support of the Flying Eye Hospital's journey, HKBAC assisted the plane crew in flight planning and provided ground support, as well as one-stop Custom, Immigration and Quarantine (CIQ) services. Proceeds for HKBAC was donated back to Orbis.

“We are very honored to assist the Flying Eye Hospital in their sight-saving world journey, helping people with eye-diseases to restore vision and prevent blindness.”, said Ms. Madonna Fung, General Manager of HKBAC.
